

Friday, : : : : : April 11, 1853.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Mr. Douglas replied to some of Mr. Collamer's criticisms on the majority report, maintaining that the purpose of the Free State men in Kansas was to resist the Federal Government if their application as a State was rejected.

He refuted the charge of invasion by the Missourians.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—SENATE.—Mr. Mason from the Committee on Foreign Relations reported a resolution to the effect that no further legislation is necessary in order to put an end to the treaty with Denmark, regulating the payment of the sound dues—the subject was on motion made the special order for Monday next.

Mr. Seward—I desire to know of my honorable friend from Michigan, whether the memorial which he presents, is a memorial which purports to come from the territorial Legislature of Kansas, or organized under the act of Congress, as I am led to infer from the manner in which he describes, or whether it is a memorial from the provisional Legislature of the new State.

...is to receive a gift of 3,000 fe

ers are going to
ried the borough
Pa.) last Friday.

1500 LBS. Candy, assorted;
300 lbs. Candy Klases;
300 lbs. Maple Sugar;
500 " Nuts, assorted;
For sale by
J. C. HEWEY.

FELIX S FISHER.
ST. LAWRENCE can be seen at the following county Courts in April: Stanford, Lancaster and Danville.
march 28, '56 tf

HAIR, Buck and Moss Mattresses always on hand, or made to order, of any desired size, at may 21
WIEHL'S WAREROOMS,
Opposite the Tribune Office.

ted Jack, Bertrand. I think it is the largest colt I have ever seen of its age. It possesses more style than common. I consider him a fine breeder and a sure foal getter.

March 25, 1866. D. A. KNOX.

PERSONS wishing to purchase Corn Meal, can be supplied at MOCK'S MILL, with any desired quantity, at 25 cents per bushel.

FOR PRESIDENT,
MILLARD FILLMORE,
OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
ANDREW J. DONELSON, OF TENNESSEE.

DANVILLE:
Friday, April 11, 1856.

Hon. Humphrey Marshall, has our thanks for Congressional documents.

GOOD BUSINESS RULES.—If you want to buy anything, if you want to sell anything, if you want to know anything, if you want to tell anything, if you want to do anything, if you want to be anything, do it right.

TOWN ELECTION.—At the election held in this place for town officers, on Saturday last, Jas. H. Irvine, Esq., was elected Police Judge, and P. C. Fox, Esq., Town Attorney. The following named gentlemen were chosen to serve as Town Trustees for the ensuing year: I. P. Fisher, G. W. Welsh, John Tompkins, R. S. Dunlap, R. W. Washington, A. S. McIntyre, E. B. Russell.

MEASURES. J. H. Irvine, G. W. Donnelly and W. R. Oren, were elected Common School Trustees for the town district.

IT has been currently rumored for some days past, that the newly elected Board of Trustees would grant to our hotel keepers the privilege of selling liquor, if such privilege was applied for. We publish in another column, a communication on the subject, to which we invite attention.

We are not advised precisely as to what the views and intentions of the members of the new Board really are, but we have reason to believe that they do not desire, by any means, to act contrary to what they may believe the sentiments of a majority of our citizens. In regard to the license question, we hope they will take no action at present, or until they feel certain in some way the wishes of the people in reference to it. We deem it but just to state, for the information of our readers abroad, that the gentlemen who compose the new Board are Temperance men; and are among the best citizens of our town. If any of them are favorable to the policy of granting liquor license to the hotels of the place, it is only because, in their opinion, such action would, in some degree, remedy existing evils, connected with the sale and use of ardent spirits. Whether or not the result would prove equal to their anticipations, is not for us to predict.

FROM PICTURES AND ENGRAVINGS.—See the advertisement of the "Washington Book and Picture Company." Their agent has just opened, in the room adjoining Post Office, a large variety of splendid oil paintings, engravings, &c. Those who are lovers of the beautiful, will be delighted by examination of these works of art. Many of them are of striking beauty, and exhibit the highest artistic skill and taste, while the styles and subjects of illustration, embrace such a large variety, that every taste can be gratified and pleased.

The terms upon which these pictures are to be had, will be ascertained by reference to the advertisement.

NEW STOCK.—Retire the advertisements of Mr. G. G. CARPENTER. He is now receiving large additions to his already extensive and varied stock. Purchasers will find him well prepared to fill their orders.

SPRING GOODS.—Mr. W. C. LUCAS'S advertisement of new goods will be found in another column. He has a large stock, embracing the latest styles.

J. B. WILGUS & CO., LEXINGTON.—We take pleasure in referring our readers, especially those who buy to sell again, to the advertisement of the above firm. Mr. Wilgus is well known as a member of one of the oldest Grocery firms in Lexington, and may be relied upon as a prompt and accommodating dealer.

OUR FRIEND, JAS. R. CARBON, of "Sand-limity," will accept our thanks for a handsome case, of genuine Native-American mountain growth.

WE understand that the "Danville Armory," the newly formed military company in this place, will appear in public parade, on Saturday, the 19th inst., that day being the anniversary of the battle of Lexington.

ACCIDENT AND DEATH.—The Shelby News says that on Monday last, Mr. WESLEY ACTON, of Crab Orchard, Ky., was killed instantly, on the turnpike, two miles east of Shelbyville, by his wagon running over him. The wheels ran across his breast, crushing the ribs and back bone, and lacerating his heart and lungs.

MERRY'S MUSEUM AND PARLEY'S MAGAZINE.—The April number of this deservedly popular juvenile Magazine, has been received. It is, as usual, filled with contributions from the pens of those who are adepts in the art of pleasing and instructing the young. Parents, who desire to place in the hands of their children, reading that will benefit and interest them, would do well to subscribe for this Magazine. Terms—One dollar a year, in advance. Four copies for three dollars. Address I. C. & J. N. Stearns, Publishers, 116 Nassau st. New York.

GREAT FILLMORE MEETING.—Week before last, an immense Fillmore meeting was held in Evansville, Ind., and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. One of the objects of the convention was to form a Fillmore Club. John M. Horlan, Esq., of Kentucky addressed the meeting for two hours and a half, and his speech was listened to with profound attention and received with the warmest applause.

EDWARD EVERETT AND JUDGE STORY.—When Edward Everett was entertained at a public dinner before leaving Boston, Judge Story, gave as a sentiment—(which is sure to be rewarded)—"Let every man be a lawyer, and every lawyer a man." Mr. Everett responded— "Law, equity and jurisprudence; no fortune can raise them above one class."

FRANKFORT AND HER SLANDERERS.—Some of the Sag Nicht presses are very industriously circulating reports that the city of Frankfort is bankrupt—a report which the Commonwealth denounces as false and slanderous. It is strange, that editors of prominent sheets should descend, from motives of personal or political hostility, to the low task of endeavoring to injure the credit of a city, the capital of their own State. That they do make the descent, is only another evidence of the "total depravity" of Sag Nicht editors. We have a high admiration for the city of Frankfort. No city of the same size, presents a more handsome appearance, or gives stronger evidences of the enlightened enterprise and refined taste of its citizens. The people generally are hospitable, intelligent, generous and moral—but a majority of them have the good sense and patriotism to be American in politics—hence they are fit subjects for the slanderous abuse of their political foes, and their city is for the same reason made the object against which to circulate false and injurious reports, calculated, not to do harm at home, but to injure its credit and standing abroad. Such dirty work is just the sort to suit the disposition of those whose business seems only to lie, and that continually.

THE CITY ELECTIONS IN ST. LOUIS AND CINCINNATI have gone against the Americans. It takes a combination of Democracy, Black Republicanism, and foreignism to beat "Sam," and his opponents seem to have a taste for such coalitions. In the North, at present, they are all the rage, and though the American party has in very many instances triumphed over them all, it is not to be wondered at, that such a fusion is sometimes successful.

The Benton ticket was elected in St. Louis by a majority of about 9,000. In Cincinnati, the result was the election of five Democrats and two Americans on the general city ticket; 10 Democratic, 7 American and 1 Independent Councilmen. The Republicans seem to have a favorite for foreigners. Among the successful candidates, were Woodier, Zeigler, Horation, Oehlman, &c.

THE AMERICAN NOMINATIONS.—The New York Tribune and other American papers charge that the nominees of the American National Convention, for President and Vice President, stand upon a Southern pro-slavery platform—while in the South foreign party insists that they are rather to be regarded as Abolitionists. They are, in fact, stand precisely where they ought to stand, upon the platform of the Constitution, resolved, if elected, to guard the rights of all sections of the country equally; and hence they ought to receive the support of all truly national men. The fact of their being charged at the North with attachment to Southern, and at the South with leaning to Northern interests, shows conclusively that they are the very men who should be placed in power—because it proves that they would administer public affairs with even-handed justice, in the true spirit of the Constitution. This is the experience which the nation had under the former administration of Mr. Fillmore.

LOUISVILLE ELECTION.—The municipal election in Louisville, on Saturday last, resulted in a decisive American triumph. The American ticket in every ward was successful by increased majorities.

The cause assigned by the opposition for this signal American victory, is, of course, that the strength of the Sag Nichts was not voted. Neither was the strength of the American party, by an immense defeat. The truth is, the Sag had no hope of success—could scarcely expect candidates to run, with the certainty of defeat staring them in the face. If they had voted their strength, the result would have been the same, and no excuse would have been left them for it.

IN the Democratic National Convention, in 1852, by which Gen. Pierce was nominated for the Presidency, on the first ballot, Gen. Cass received 115 votes, Buchanan 93, Douglas 20, May 37, Lane 13, Houston 8, Weller 4, Butler 2, Dodge 3, Dickinson 1. Gen. Cass's highest vote was 131, which he received on the 36th ballot. Mr. Buchanan 104 on the 23d, and Mr. Douglas 92 on the 21st ballot. Gen. Pierce was not voted for at all until, we believe, the 40th ballot.

MR. EVERETT AND MR. WINTHROP.—The American Organ announces that Edward Everett, Robert C. Winthrop, with other distinguished Whigs whose names it gives, "are content with Fillmore and Donelson," and "will take the field under the American banner."

A charter election took place last week in Schenectady, New York. The Americans took the field, and the Soft Democrats, the Hard Democrats, and the Black Republicans, all united against them. The Americans however elected their ticket by an unparalleled majority, and their organ says, that, with Fillmore and Donelson as their candidates, they will cover themselves with still greater glory in November.

MOUNT VERNON OFFER FOR SALE.—John A. Washington, Esq., the proprietor of Mount Vernon, has written a letter to Mrs. Maria C. Wofford, of South Carolina, in which he announces briefly, but positively, that the place is not for sale. The ladies of the United States, who are making collections of money for its purchase, are therefore doomed to disappointment.

TOP BOOTS are all the spasm in New York now. The cream of Broadway wear tassels to them and a sporting whip thrust out from the side pocket complete the tableau. Gilt edge shirt collars are expected to make their appearance next month.

ONE or two of the South Carolina papers, says the Knoxville Register, are furious in their assaults upon Andrew J. Donelson. This is not to be wondered at. Maj. Donelson is the man who rose up in his seat in the famous Disunion Convention at Nashville, and denounced them as traitors. It is quite natural that South Carolina disunionists should dislike him.

LOSS OF CATTLE.—The loss of cattle by the cold weather in Texas has been immense. Not less than one-third of the stock in many counties, it is thought, has been lost.

HENRY A. WISE IN LANE.—It is said and believed in Richmond, by persons who have very just opportunity of knowing, that Gov. Wise's mind is very much impaired—indeed so much so that he should not be held responsible for his language or writings.

OFFICIAL ADVICES received at Washington, from Costa Rica, confirm the published accounts relative to the military movements in that State, and confidently predict the uprising of the people at Nicaragua against the government of Walker, and the annihilation of his army.

WHO IS MILLARD FILLMORE?—Some of the Sag Nicht presses are very industriously circulating reports that the city of Frankfort is bankrupt—a report which the Commonwealth denounces as false and slanderous. It is strange, that editors of prominent sheets should descend, from motives of personal or political hostility, to the low task of endeavoring to injure the credit of a city, the capital of their own State. That they do make the descent, is only another evidence of the "total depravity" of Sag Nicht editors. We have a high admiration for the city of Frankfort. No city of the same size, presents a more handsome appearance, or gives stronger evidences of the enlightened enterprise and refined taste of its citizens. The people generally are hospitable, intelligent, generous and moral—but a majority of them have the good sense and patriotism to be American in politics—hence they are fit subjects for the slanderous abuse of their political foes, and their city is for the same reason made the object against which to circulate false and injurious reports, calculated, not to do harm at home, but to injure its credit and standing abroad. Such dirty work is just the sort to suit the disposition of those whose business seems only to lie, and that continually.

AT the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

LEAP YEAR FEARS OF THE LADIES.—The young ladies of Aurora, Illinois, have passed the following resolution: "Resolved, That if we, the young ladies of Aurora, don't get married this year, somebody will be to blame." Shouldn't wonder.

VIRGINIA OLD LINE WHIGS FOR FILLMORE.—The Alexandria Gazette states that the old line Whigs of Virginia intend holding a Convention at the White Sulphur Springs during the summer. The Gazette is confident that they will endorse the American Presidential nomination.

A SENSIBLE RESOLVE.—The Alabama State Sentinel (Democratic) opposes the renomination of Gen. Pierce, and declares its purpose to support Mr. Fillmore, in such an event. There are thousands and tens of thousands of Democrats who have unconditionally resolved to vote for Fillmore and Donelson, no matter whom the anti-Americans nominate.

HON. ELLIOTT L. LADD has contributed to the Albany Statesman a letter addressed to him (E. L.) by Garrett Davis, of Ky., in which the latter states that Mr. Clay, in 1844, declared (to Davis and others, at Ashland) his adhesion to the Native American principle—but conferred with Mr. Davis and others, that considering the short period before the election, (Mr. Clay being a candidate), he had better not authorize his support of the Native American principle to be made public.

ABOLITION PRESIDENTIAL CONVENTION.—Gerrit Smith and Lewis Tappan (white men) and Dr. James McCune Smith (colored man) and others, have issued a circular asking for names to be affixed to a call for a mass convention to be held at Syracuse on the 29th of May next. "No nominate candidates for President and Vice President of the United States—not merely anti-slavery candidates, but thorough abolition candidates."

IT is estimated that ninety-six million lbs. of hard are made in the United States, of which twenty millions are made in Cincinnati. England and Cuba each take annually nine million pounds of American hard.

FOREIGNISM IN CINCINNATI.—At the recent Democratic Convention in Cincinnati the members were thus constituted: Foreign Roman Catholics, 84; American " " 60; Natives and Foreign Protestants, 11. Total, 155.

Candidates nominated, eight: Foreigners, 5; Natives, 3. Total, 8.

Subsequently a call was made for a meeting of Independent American Democrats, to nominate a ticket to be voted for by those Democrats not disposed to prostrate themselves in the dust, on their own soil, before foreignism and foreign ecclesiasticism.

THE PAY OF MEMBERS OF CONGRESS.—A Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger, says: "Notice has been given in the Senate of the introduction of a bill providing for the increase of the per diem pay of members of both Houses. Under the present system none but rich men can really afford to become members of Congress. The community generally know nothing of the innumerable demands made upon them, for all sorts of purposes; and the expense of living in Washington, as a member is expected to and must live, specifically eats up all that they now receive. I understand that it is proposed to fix the pay at twelve dollars per day. I learn, also, that an amendment will be proposed, giving the members a fixed annual salary."

KENTUCKY CENTRAL RAIL ROAD—COVINGTON AND LEXINGTON DIVISION.—The earnings of this company for the month of March, were as follows: Passengers and Express, 11,371 41; Mail, 813 83; Freight, 15,062 40. Total, $27,247 64.

BEAR IT IN MIND.—While Millard Fillmore occupied the Presidential Chair, says the Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer, not a disorganizer, North or South, received an appointment to a post of honor or profit. The consequence was, fanaticism and dissatisfaction were almost starved out when he left the office. His successor came in and lavished the patronage of the Government upon the Abolitionists, Secessionists, and Free-soilers, and the Union is on the brink of dissolution!

THE farmers are actively engaged in preparing for their spring crops.

Col. E. S. Cheatham has been elected president of the Henderson and Nashville railroad.

PROBATION.—A negro woman near Apolonia, Ark., gave birth, a few days ago, to five children—three girls and two boys.

The election for State officers in Connecticut takes place next Monday, and it is expected that a large number of voters will be present.

An advertiser in the New York Sun advertises for several females to work on vests; and says a good stitcher will be paid $1 per week!

The Washington Star says, the grand jury of Washington has refused to find a true bill against Hon. Albert Rust for striking Horace Greeley.

Mr. Noah B. McMillan has purchased property in Lexington, with a view of establishing a pork house in that city.

of revolutionary and American in principle. He was born in the month of the 19th century, and found him a poor boy, with a humble trade of clothier. In boyhood he had few educational advantages—his father was composed of the books of the common school and the Bible—the first laid the foundation for him the pure and exalted character which has caused him to be respected by all parties for his integrity, his uprightness, his devotion to right. By the friendly aid of a gentleman, who had the sagacity to appreciate him, the mechanic became a lawyer. At the age of thirty-two the lawyer became a politician—was elected to Congress, and re-elected several times afterwards.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

of revolutionary and American in principle. He was born in the month of the 19th century, and found him a poor boy, with a humble trade of clothier. In boyhood he had few educational advantages—his father was composed of the books of the common school and the Bible—the first laid the foundation for him the pure and exalted character which has caused him to be respected by all parties for his integrity, his uprightness, his devotion to right. By the friendly aid of a gentleman, who had the sagacity to appreciate him, the mechanic became a lawyer. At the age of thirty-two the lawyer became a politician—was elected to Congress, and re-elected several times afterwards.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the fourth day of March eighteen hundred and fifty-three, he retired from the Presidency, leaving the republic peaceful and prosperous at home, and respected and admired abroad.

At the age of fifty, the mechanic, the lawyer, and the politician, was called, by the voice of Providence, to fill the highest station on earth—the Presidency of the United States! It need not be said how he filled it. The country knows. The world knows. On the

